Sitag with growth and laser technology innovation

Sitag can look back on an outstanding financial year 2018 with 20% growth and is the first office furniture manufacturer in Switzerland to use laser technology for free-form shapes in a processing centre.

Sennwald. For Sitag, a manufacturer of high-quality office furniture and office chairs based in Sennwald, incoming orders in 2018 were highly gratifying and increased by more than 20%. «Thanks to the high level of performance and our proximity to the customer, it was possible to set up over 950 workstations at companies such as Group Mutuel, over 1000 at Sunrise or over 980 at one of the world's largest auditing companies,» says Yilmaz Boduk, CCO of Sitag AG. Every year, Sitag also supplies several thousand current-free, liftmatically height-adjustable seat-stand tables for public administration. For the year 2019 Boduk again expects a growth of approx. 13%.

Laser technology for free forms

Since February 2019, Sitag AG has a new processing centre, which now also makes it possible to create free-form surfaces with laser edges. With the laserTec process all common edges can be manufactured. Thanks to the highest precision performance, the edge transitions are not visible thanks to the optical zero joint. In addition to a new heating and dust extraction system, Sitag expects a lot from the new processing centre. «We are constantly investing in the modernisation of our production facilities and environmental protection and are proud to be the first office furniture manufacturer in Switzerland to use laser technology for free forms on a processing centre,» says Toni Lee, CEO of Sitag AG. As early as 2011, Sitag was the first office furniture manufacturer in Switzerland to use laser technology for edges and was able to process straight edges.
